Description

The S4007 brake pad is derived from one used in racing used, proven long-distance racing surface. He became specially developed with regard to increased thermal performance and meets the requirements of ECE-R 13H (legal requirement in many countries).

The following clearly different properties in comparison Please note the following regarding the standard brake pad:

- Reduced comfort: The brake pad can do significantly more cause noise. However, the function is hereby not limited.
- The design of the braking force distribution is racing-oriented. This means that dynamic steering takes place on the brakes supported and differs significantly from the series configuration.
- Increased stress on the brake discs: Due to the Changed friction mechanisms cause the brake disc to wear out more quickly. This is why we recommend this when installing The brake pad must also be replaced with the brake disc. It is absolutely necessary to replace the brake disc In the case of cracks larger than 13 mm, this also prevents the brake pad from wearing out.

Details

- Shorter braking distance.
- Better brake response.
- Higher thermal resilience.
